For Your Legal Knowledge: How Many Days Is a Complaint or Report of a Crime Examined?

Where, after reviewing a complaint or report of a crime, the investigator needs to establish whether there are signs of a crime, the investigator may carry out the following investigative actions within 5 days of receiving the complaint or report:

- conducting an inspection;

- taking samples, fingerprints and impressions of traces for examination;

- taking statements from the victim, witnesses and the suspect;

- seizing vehicles, money and items relevant to the case;

- attaching property.

- making a decision to order an expert examination.

Where necessary, the head of the investigating authority may extend the period specified in Paragraph 1 of this Article once by up to 14 days.
